WHY ARE WE WALKING?

Soweto Day

On June 16, 1976, over 20,000 students, ranging in age from 6 to 20, marched to protest the use of Afrikaans as the medium of instruction in their schools in Soweto, South Africa. The protest was met with violent police action. Over 1000 children were killed and wounded; many were shot in the back as they ran to avoid the conflict. Out of this terrible massacre at Soweto came a new resolve of the South African people to free themselves. June 16th is commemorated throughout the anti-apartheid movement in honor of the courageous students who gave their lives in the struggle against apartheid.

Detainees in South Africa's Jails

In an attempt to destroy all opposition to apartheid, the white minority government of South Africa has detained over 30,000 people since 1986. Men and women, church, trade union and community leaders, journalists, students and their teachers have all been detained without charge or trial, some for up to 3 years. Forty percent of those detained are 18 years or younger. The detainees are denied access to lawyers or family. Doctors have reported that more than 80 percent of the detainees they examined showed signs of torture. Many prisoners have died in police custody. Hundreds of detainees recently participated in hunger strikes to protest their desperate situation.

WHERE WILL WALKATHON PROCEEDS GO?

South African Council of Churches

Half of the Walkathon's proceeds will help fund the South African Council of Churches' (SACC) Dependent's Conference which is responsible for ministry to political prisoners, detainees, banned persons and their families. SACC channels legal defense costs, arranges prison visits by relatives, provides counseling and subsistence grants for families of prisoners and detainees, creates public awareness of the plight of prisoners, detainees and their families.

National Medical and Dental Association of South Africa - NAMDA

NAMDA is a multiracial organization of physicians and dentists who actively oppose apartheid. NAMDA documents the medical consequences of detention, monitors the condition of hunger-striking detainees and provides medical and psychological services to detainees upon their release. NAMDA has also trained over 1000 township residents in lifesaving first aid skills, crucial in situations where, following confrontation, townships are cordoned off and ambulances and medical personnel are not allowed to enter. NAMDA sees the general poor health of the majority of South Africa's population as being inextricably linked to the system of apartheid. They are committed to creating a democratic health system within a nonracial South Africa. Fifty percent of the proceeds of the Walkathon will go to aid this courageous organization.
